THE ADVENTURES OF PICKLOCK HOLES.

(By Cunnin Toil.)

No. III.—LADY HILDA'S MYSTERY.

A day or two after the stirring events which I have related as taking place at Blobley-in-the-Marsh, and of which, it will be remembered, I was myself an astonished spectator, I happened to be travelling, partly for business, partly for pleasure, through one of the most precipitous of the inaccessible mountain-ranges of Bokhara. It is unnecessary for me to state in detail the reasons that had induced me once more to go so far a-field. One of the primary elements in a physician's success in his career is, that he should be able to guard, under a veil of impenetrable silence, the secrets confided to his care. It cannot, therefore, be expected of me that I should reveal why his Eminence the Cardinal Dacapo, one of the most illustrious of the Princes of the Church, desired that I should set off to Bokhara. When the memoirs of the present time come to be published, it is possible that no chapter of them will give rise to bitterer discussion than that which narrates the interview of the redoubtable Cardinal with the humble author of this story. Enough, however, of this, at present. On some future occasion much more will have to be said about it. I cannot endure to be for ever the scape-goat of the great, and, if the Cardinal persists in his refusal to do me justice, I shall have, in the last resort, to tell the whole truth about one of the strangest affairs that ever furnished gossip for all the most brilliant and aristocratic tea-tables of the Metropolis.

I was walking along the narrow mountain path that leads from Balkh to Samarcand. In my right hand I held my trusty kirghiz, which I had sharpened only that very morning. My head was shaded from the blazing sun by a broad native mollah, presented to me by the Khan of Bokhara, with whom I had spent the previous day in his Highness's magnificent marble and alabaster palace. As I walked I could not but be sensible of a curiously strained and tense feeling in the air—the sort of atmosphere that seems to be, to me at least, the invariable concomitant of country-house guessing-games. I was at a loss to account for this most curious phenomenon, when, looking up suddenly, I saw on the top of an elevated crag in front of me the solitary and impassive figure of Picklock Holes, who was at that moment engaged on one of his most brilliant feats of induction. He evinced no surprise whatever at seeing me. A cold smile lingered for a moment on his firm and secretive lips, and he laid the tips of his fingers together in his favourite attitude of deep consideration.

"How are you, my dear Potson?" he began. "What? not well? Dear me, dear me, what can it mean? And yet I don't think it can have been the fifth glass of sherbet which you took with the fourteenth wife of the Khan. No, I don't think it can have been that."

"Holes, you extraordinary creature," I broke in; "what on earth made you think that I drank five glasses of sherbert with the K_{HAN} 's fourteenth wife?"

"Nothing simpler, my dear fellow. Just before I saw you a native Bokharan goose ran past this rock, making, as it passed, a strange hissing noise, exactly like the noise made by sherbert when immersed in water. Five minutes elapsed, and then you appeared. I watched you carefully. Your lips moved, as lips move only when they pronounce the word fourteen. You then smiled and scratched your face, from which I immediately concluded you were thinking of a wife or wives. Do you follow me?"

"Yes, I do, perfectly," I answered, overjoyed to be able to say so without deviating from the truth; for in following his reasoning I did not admit its accuracy. As to that I said nothing, for I had drunk sherbert with no one, and consequently had not taken five glasses with the fourteenth wife of the Khan. Still, it was a glorious piece of guess-work on the part of my matchless friend, and I expressed my admiration for his powers in no measured terms.

"Perhaps," said Holes, after a pause, "you are wondering why I am here. I will tell you. You know Lady Hilda Cardamums?"

"What, the third and loveliest daughter of the Marquis of Sassafras?"

"The same. Two days ago she left her boudoir at Sassafras Court, saying that she would return in a quarter of an hour. A quarter of an hour elapsed, the Lady $H_{\rm ILDA}$ was still absent. The whole household was plunged in grief, and every kind of surmise was indulged in to account for the lovely girl's disappearance. Under these circumstances the Marquis sent for me, and that," said $H_{\rm OLES}$, "is why I am here."

"But," I ventured to remark, "do you really expect to find Lady Hilda here in Bokhara, on these inhospitable precipices, where even the wandering Bactrian finds his footing insecure? Surely it cannot be that you have tracked the Lady Hilda hither?"

"Tush," said Holes, smiling in spite of himself at my vehemence. "Why should she not be here? Listen. She was not at Sassafras Court. Therefore, she must have been outside Sassafras Court. Now in Bokhara is outside Sassafras Court, or, to put it algebraically, in Bokhara = outside Sassafras Court.

Substitute 'in Bokhara' for 'outside Sassafras Court,' and you get this result—

'She must have been in Bokhara.'

Do you see any flaw in my reasoning?"

For a moment I was unable to answer. The boldness and originality of this master-mind had as usual taken my breath away. Holes observed my emotion with sympathy.

"Come, come, my dear fellow!" he said; "try not to be too much overcome. Of course, I know it is not everybody who could track the mazes of a mystery so promptly; but, after all, by this time you of all people in the world ought to have grown accustomed to my ways. However, we must not linger here any longer. It is time for us to restore Lady Hilda to her parents."

As Holes uttered these words a remarkable thing happened. Round the corner of the crag on which we were standing came a little native Bokharan telegraph boy. He approached Holes, salaamed deferentially, and handed him a telegram. Holes opened it, and read it without moving a muscle, and then handed it to me. This is what I read:—

"To Holes, Bokhara.

"Hilda returned five minutes after you left. Her watch had stopped. Deeply grateful to you for all your trouble. Sassafras."

There was a moment's silence, broken by Holes.

"No," he said, "we must not blame the Lady $H_{\rm ILDA}$ for being at Sassafras Court and not in Bokhara. After all, she is young and necessarily thoughtless."

"Holes opened it, and read it."

"Still, Holes," I retorted, with some natural indignation, "I cannot understand how, after your convincing induction, a girl of any delicacy of feeling can have remained away from Bokhara."

"I knew she would do so," said my friend, calmly.

DANGER!

In our London streets, for native or stranger,
We ought to have notice-boards warning of "Danger!"
Like those on the Thames near the weirs and locks.
When Premiers collide, and when Princes get shocks,
In cabs or in carriages, King Street way driving,
'Tis time that street warnings the wise were contriving.
For now it is clear that you might as well try
To steer a balloon through a thundery sky,
Or take a stroll near the setting of sun
In a suburb where cads upon bicycles run;
Or command—or serve in—an ironclad fleet,
As—take a drive down St. James's Street!

THE LITTLE OLD (PARLIAMENTARY) WOMAN, HER (NEWCASTLE PROGRAMME) SHOE, AND HER IMPORTUNATE CHILDREN.

(An old Nursery Rhyme Re-adapted.)

There was an Old Woman who lived in her Shoe, She had so many Children she didn't know what to do; So she gave them some Broth without any Bread, Then "Whipped" them all up, and—sent them to bed!

LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST.

My Angelina once enjoyed
The mild lawn-tennis all the day,
And did not scorn to be employed
In croquet's unexciting fray;
O truly happy seasons, when

I think of you, I wish you back, For Angelina had not then Become a golfing maniac!

But now of none of these she thinks,
All such pursuits she reckons "slow,"
And spends the days upon the links,
Where nevermore I mean to go:
For I recall the heartless snubs,
Which those enchanting lips let fall,
When I demolished several clubs,
And lost my temper, and the ball.

To-day the fickle maid prefers
With young Macduff to pass her time,
Because his "putting," she avers—
Whatever that be—"is sublime;"
And when I get a chance to state
The deep affection felt by me,
She interrupts me to relate
How well she did that hole in three!

I love my Angelina still,
Yet he who chose her as a wife
Would be expected to fulfil
A caddie's duties all his life;
So, if I turn away instead,
You will not hold me much to blame?
How can I woo her? She is wed
Already—to this awful game!

EXPERTO CREDE.

Corporal M'Taggart, of the Nairn and Elgin Highlanders (to Photographer). "Hech mon, ye'll neever Hit us that gait,—ye're no allowin' for Windage!"

CROQUET.

O feeblest game, how strange if you should rise To favour, vice tennis superseded!

And yet beneath such glowing summer skies, When wildest energy is invalided,
Mere hitting balls through little hoops
Seems work enough. One merely stoops,
And lounges round, no other toil is needed.

Upon a breezy lawn beneath the shade
Of rustling trees that hide the sky so sunny,
I'll play, no steady game as would be played
By solemn, earnest folks as though for money—

[pg 87]

For love is better. Simply stoop, And hit the ball. It's through the hoop! My partner smiles; she seems to think it funny.

My pretty partner, whose bright, laughing eyes
Gaze at me while I aim another blow; lo,
I've missed because I looked at her! With sighs
I murmur an apologetic solo.
The proudest athlete here might stoop,
To hit a ball just through a hoop,
And say the game—with her—beats golf and polo.

TRUMPS FOR TRAMPS.

(From the Story of a Much-considered Nothing.)

THE Tramp was distinctly one of the Unemployed. He had no money, no friends, no home. He had obtained some work a short while since. The labour, of course, had been unskilled, and then there had come a strike, and the Tramp and his mates had turned out with the rest. The Tramp was a little annoyed, as he had been fairly satisfied to earn bread and butter and meat, and above all, and before all, beer. But the leaders of the strike had satisfied him that it was entirely for his benefit. That as the Tramp could not work up to their standard, it was their duty to work down to his—and yet get paid at the same rate of wages belonging to the higher scale. This seemed to the Tramp pleasant enough. But while he waited, he starved; so he was not sure that the notion of the strike was so excellent after all. But then his brain might have been clearer—it had not been fed (in common with the rest of his body) for several days.

So the Tramp—weary, ragged, and tanned—wandered to the spot where Labour was holding her Congress. The last meeting had been held, and the final squabble settled when he reached his destination.

There were a couple of well-fed, healthy-looking men, dressed in good strong broad-cloth, standing outside the meeting-place. They regarded the Tramp with some surprise.

"Surely not a Member?" said the first.

"And of course not a Delegate?" hinted the second.

The tramp shook his head. He knew nothing about Members and Delegates.

"I thought not," said Number One. "All our Members and Delegates are quite of respectable appearance."

"Got nothing to do," replied the Tramp, laconically.

"Why don't you try the Colonies?" asked Number Two. "There has been an immense fall in the value of land in Australia. You would get it cheap just now. Why not emigrate? Why not acquire some land?"

"I don't want land, I want food!" returned the Tramp.

"Well, when we have a vacancy, you shall become one of us. We eat, drink, and talk; but we don't work. It's the best employment out." And the Tramp found it so.

'ARRIET ON LABOUR.

Dear Polly,—These are pooty times, and don't you make no herror.

They gives me twists, though I am called the Tottenham Court Road Terror,

Along of quantities of pluck, and being such a dasher;

But now the papers bring hus news as spiles yer mornin' rasher.

"Labour is looking up, you bet!" So sez Sam Jones, our neighbour.

"I'm glad to 'ear it, SAM," sez I. "But, SAMMY, wot is Labour?"
SAM gives his greasy curl a twist, and looks seven ways for Sunday.

Bit bosky, Sam, thick in the clear, as usual on Saint Monday.

[pg 88]

"Labour!" I sez, "Oh, shoo fly, Sam! You 'orny-'anded codgers—

Your palm's as soft as putty, Sam—are reglar Artful Dodgers.

Yer Labour, with a capital L, looks mighty fine in print, SAM,

But work with a small w—ah! I see yer takes the 'int, SAM."

That shut him up, the lolloper! He know'd I'd took his measure,

And squelching 'umbugs always do give me pertikler pleasure.

Jones sorter set 'is cap at me; I earn good money I do;

But love as follows L.S.D. 's all fol-der-riddle-dido!

"Bashing a knobstick's ripping fun, no doubt —for them as bashes;

But this here new petroleum game won't work." Here Jones's lashes—

They're stubby, ginger, sly-fox ones—got kinder tangle-twinkle. I 'ad my eye on 'im, the worm, while working out my winkle.

(I'd got a pennorth in a bag; they're things to which I'm partial.)

"We must bust up Mernopoly," sez Sam, a-looking martial.
"The 'Oly Cause o' Labour carn't be stayed by trifles, 'Arriet!
Judas must 'ang, 'twere weakness to show mercy to Iscariot!"

"Bit o' yer platform gag," sez I. "You keep it for the club, Sam.
'Twon't comfort me, nor your old mother toiling at the tub, Sam.
The 'Oly Cause o' Labour, Sam 's, a splendid thing to spout about,

But it's a thing as skulkers makes the most tremenjus rout about."

I'm only just a work-girl, Poll, one of the larky drudges
As swarm acrost the bridge at night and 'omeward gaily trudges,

A tootling "Ta-ra-boom-de-ay," a chaffing of the fellers, And flourishing their feathered 'ats bright reds, and blues and yellers.

As vulgar as they make 'em, $\ensuremath{\mathsf{Poll}}.$ Leastways the chaps whose trade is

To write and dror in Comics, call hus "anythink but ladies." Ladies? O lor! On thirteen bob a week, less sundry tanners For fines, it's none so easy, Poll, to keep up style and manners.

But work-girls work, and that is more than SAM and 'is sort—drat 'em!

When I see shirks platforming, Poll, I'm longing to get at 'em. When Women's Rights include the charnce of gettin' a fair 'earing

For Women's Wrongs—wy then there'll be less bashing and less beering.

As for the Vote—well, I dunno. It seems pertikler curious

That politics makes a man a hass, they drives the fellers furious.

If Votes sets women by the ears, as they does men, my winky! I guess 'twill make domestic life even more crabbed and kinky.

Wy my young man—you know 'im, Poll—whose temper's real milky,

Whose 'art is soft as 'is merstarche—and that is simply silky—Got that rouged up on polling day, along of a young Tory As called him names. I 'ad to 'ug 'im off to stop the gory.

The chap was in the 'atting line, and thought Balfour a 'ero; Whereas my ${\sf Mick}$ 'as Hirish blood, and calls 'im "Niminy Nero." I don't a bit know what they meant, but if them votes should send ${\it hus}$

As fairly off our chumps as men, the shine will be tremendous!

We shall 'ave a fair beano then! Well, I'm not nuts on voting. Your 'Arrier's lay is—better pay! That's not wot they're promoting,

Them spouting Labour Candidates. Of women's work they're jealous;

They light the fire to warm hus? Bah! they're only good at bellows!

Their Eight 'Ours Day, and such-like rot, gives me the 'ump, dear Polly—

Wouldn't some women like it, though? Well, 'oping for it's folly, Like longing for a seal-skin sweet, or a Marquige for a lover. Man's work may be too long sometimes, a woman's never over.

Leastways, a $\mathit{married}$ woman's, Poll. Mick's 'ot on me to "settle,"

But eighteen bob a week—his screw—ain't much to bile the kettle;

And I ain't 'ad my fling, not yet. Mick's reglar smart and sparky, But—when a woman's fairly spliced, it's U. P. with the larky.

And oh my, Poll, I do love larks! Theayters, 'ops, and houtings Warm a girl's 'art a rare sight more than politics and spoutings. Mick says he 'as his eye upon a "flat," neat and commojus. Mick's a good sort, but tied for life to toil—at eighteen? Ojus!

'Ard Labour, and for life, without the hoption! That's a sentence

As 'ot as 'Arry 'Orkins's, and no place for repentance. Ah, Poll, my girl, a woman's work is Labour, and no skulking. It must go on though yer old man's out of a job or sulking.

Mothers can't strike, or unionise, or make demonsterations. The bloke 'as got the bulge on them. Now girls in situations, Like you and me, Poll, 'as a chance of larky nights and jolly days,

Along of arter bizness 'ours, and, now and then, the 'olidays.

But 'twixt the cradle and the tub, the old man and 'er needle, A married woman's tied up tight. Yus, Mick may spoon and wheedle,

But when a woman's got four kids, bad 'ealth, and toke for tiffin.

Then marriage is a failure, Poll, I give yer the straight griffin.

The goodies slate us shop-girls sharp, say married life or sarvice

Are more respectabler. Oh lor! Just look at poor Jane Jarvis! She were a dasher, Jenny were, 'er fringe and feathers took it, And now—'er only 'ope's that Bill may tire of 'er and 'ook it.

You know that purple hostrich plume she were so proud of, POLLY!

I bought it on 'er for five bob larst week, and it looks jolly In my new 'at. But as she sat a snivellin' o'er that dollar, Thinks I if this is married life 'Arrier's not game for collar.

She looked so suety and sad, and all them golden tresses
She was so proud of when it ran to smart new 'ats and dresses,
Was all tight knotted round 'er knob like oakum on a mop, Poll.
Her bright blue eyes in mourning, and—well, there, I couldn't stop, Poll.

Labour? Well yus, the best of hus must work; yer carn't git quit of it;

And you and me, Poll, like the rest, must do our little bit of it. But oh, I loves my freedom, Poll, my hevenings hoff is 'eaven; But wives and slavies ain't allowed even one day in seven.

Jigger the men! Sam spouts and shouts about the 'Onest Worker.

That always means a Man, of course—he's a smart Man, the shirker!

But when a Man lives upon his wife, and skulks around his diggings,

Who is the "'Onest Worker" then?—Yours truly,

[pg 89]

FROM GRAVE TO GAY; OR, THE SECRET OF SUCCESS.

Dash Blank was a genius. He had been an immense success at school, and had done admirably at the University. He then came up to town and tried many things. He was a poet, a musician, an artist, an inventor. And everyone he knew, said it was absolutely wonderful, and that he should make a fortune. But just at the moment he had a fair income, which had been left to him by his deceased relative, and there was no occasion to augment his means. On the contrary, if anything, his accomplishments were rather a loss to him than a gain. So the situation existed for a time.

Then came a crash in the City, and poor Dash Blank found himself penniless. It was then he tried to turn his talents to account, but found that their market value was nil, or even less.

But, fortunately, he was "such a genius," and to persons of that class often come what may be termed happy thoughts.

Dash Blank disappeared—completely, absolutely. His absence remained unnoticed for some time, and then, of a sudden, his death got into the papers. It was copied from one journal to another, until the intelligence was conveyed from one end of the Empire to the other. Then some one made the discovery that Dash Blank had not been appreciated. Immediately all his brilliant failures were unearthed, and advertised into popularity. His poems on republication realised hundreds, and his pictures thousands; his wonderful invention was patented, turned into a Company of Limited Liability, and quickly realised a fortune. Dash Blank was a name to conjure with—it was typical of success.

At length a statue was erected to his memory, and the unveiling became an important function. All sorts of smart people were present, and the finest things imaginable were said about his career. When it was all over, the Sculptor was left alone with what had been recently termed his "masterpiece."

"No," said he; "it is not a bit like poor Dash. I never could get his expression."

"It's not bad," observed a man in a cloak, who had come up while he was murmuring, and who now stood beside him; "not at all bad, considering he never gave you a sitting."

"That's true enough," replied the Sculptor; "but how did you know it?"

"Because I happen to be Dash Blank himself!" and then the man in the cloak threw off that covering, and revealed his identity.

After this came an explanation. The genius noticing that when a clever man dies there is always a run upon his works, died himself. At any rate that was the impression in the minds of everyone save a friendly executor, who collected the money for his estate. Then the friendly executor paid the proceeds to the imaginary deceased.

"And shall you resume work?" asked the Sculptor, after he had recovered from his astonishment.

"Not I. You need be under no alarm that anyone will compare your portrait with the original. I have had enough of work, and with my recently accumulated capital, shall try my hand at speculation. Good bye, if you are in my neighbourhood, look me up. You will find me anywhere between the Arctic and Antarctic Zones." And then he went over to America, put his money into wooden nutmegs, and promptly became a millionaire.

THE "ONE-HORSE" HOUSEHOLDER.

(A Solemn Social Ditty.)

In a region where freshly-built suburbs lie ending 'Mid plots of the glum market-gardener's ground,—
Its bare, tenantless frontages gloomily blending
With grime and neglect that are rampant all round,
Runs the street, so forlorn it could not be forlorner,
Where, looking straight down a "no thoroughfare" road,
With the blaze of a new public-house at the corner,
The sad "One-horse" Householder finds his abode!

'Tis a wilderness wild of dread dilapidations, Where one feeble gas-light illumines the street, While right over the way fourteen kitchen foundations Of houses unfinished the aching eye greet! How he first chanced to find it his friends often wonder.

No omnibus runs within miles of his door,— Nor a train, be it either above-ground or under,

Wakes life with its thrice welcome whistle

If you call at that house, you'll be knocking and ringing,

Till, with forcible language, you're leaving the place,

When a slavey, who comes up the hall gaily singing,

Flings open the door, with a smut on her face.

You ask "if they're in," and she looks you all over,—

It's clear she's quite new to an afternoon call,—

P'raps takes you for Turpin, Bill Sikes, the Red Rover; But she says that she'll "see," and leaves you in the hall.

You are ushered upstairs, which a Dutch carpet graces, To a drawing-room, curtained at threepence a yard, Where Japanese gimcracks appear in odd places, Though Aspinall clearly has proved their trump card; For here it envelopes a plain kitchen-table, There a weak wicker lounge which invites not repose; And at length you are seated, as well as you're able, On a folding arm-chair that half threatens to close.

But they offer you tea, made with unboiling water,
A syrupy Souchong at tenpence a pound,
Which a simpering, woebegone, elderly daughter,
With stale bread rancid buttered, is handing around.
And you think you'll be off: as your talk halts and flounders,
For you feel most distinctly, they're not in your line,
And you say to yourself, "Yes, these Johnsons are bounders,"
But before you can go, you have promised to dine!

That same dinner will take you some seasons forgetting!
The claret was sour, the "tinned" oysters, Blue Point;
And moreover 'tis really a little upsetting,
For the cook to come up very drunk with the joint!
And when to crown this you are asked to expel her,
And find a Policeman,—that is, if you could.
It may soothe you to hear yourself called "a good feller,"
But can you admit that the dinner was good?

And so when you meet Johnson going up to the City,
It somehow to-day does not strike you as odd,
That with feelings of scorn not unmingled with pity,
You hurry on fast with a stiff little nod.
Be his craze "speculation," "a crush," "a small dinner,"
A christening, marriage, a death or a birth,—
There's a limpness of purpose that shows, though no sinner.
Why the dim "One-horse" Householder cumbers the earth!

A LIVELY PROSPECT.

Jones (who has come, for the first time, to spend a week at Prigglesly Manor). "Smith, of Balliol, was here; wasn't he, Mrs. Prigglesly?"

Mrs. Prigglesly. "Yes; for a week. He's just left. He was quite Nice. But I assure you I don't feel a bit the Wiser or the Better for any single Thing he said the Whole Time!"

MAKING THEM USEFUL.

See in the papers that school-children at Whissendine and elsewhere are taught gardening. Excellent idea, this. Small Holdings for Small Boys! Decide to try it at my "Select Academy for the Sons of Gentlemen," as kitchen garden certainly does want attending to, and I can't afford a gardener. Tell the boys about it. They want to know if the hour a day which I purpose to devote to Agriculture is to take the place of Bradley's Latin Exercises. On hearing that it is, boys seem relieved, and Smith Junior pronounces the scheme a "jolly lark." I confess I am pleased to find this appreciation of my new arrangement on the part of the most troublesome urchin in the school.

Next Day.—All the boys are now provided with separate plots, spades, rakes, and hoes. Youth, in fact, is at the Plough, and Myself at the Helm, so we ought to get on all right. I purchase for them some young cabbage-plants and cucumber-seeds, which will go down as "extras" in the bills at the end of Term. Boys very active first day. Smith Junior breaks his spade, and gets fifty lines. Jones astonishes me by talking about "Three Acres and a Cow." Find that his father is a strong Radical. Must be careful what I say to Jones. The general opinion seems to be that Gardening is better than Bradley's Exercises "by long chalks." Encouraging.

Week Later.—In order to gain my prize for best cabbages, boys have been stimulating their growth with a guano made of chopped bones, slate-pencil dust, and ink! Surprisingly fine specimens in young Dodger's allotment. Too good to be true. Go out to inspect, take up one of his cabbages, and find it has no roots. Dodger admits that he bought them from village greengrocer. I remark humorously to boys—"This is Dodger's plot!" Boys cheer me, and, being indignant at Dodger's cheating, make him—so I hear afterwards—"run the gauntlet" in the dormitory the same evening. Hope it will do the little sneak good. Smith Junior tries to do circus trick on garden roller. Nearly killed. Two hundred lines, and a page of Bradley's Exercises. Hear him saying that "he wishes Old Swats (that's me) would do his gardening himself, and see how he likes it!" No, thanks.

End of the Experiment.—Kitchen garden a wreck! There has been a battle royal between Flashboyites and Smith Juniorites. Flashboy stole all the spades, and entrenched himself in an earthwork, which the other side stormed. Smith Junior bleeding but triumphant. Says "gardening is much better far than Bradley's Exercises." Cucumbers (bought as missiles) and potatoes lying all about. Several have got through school-room windows! Letters arrive from parents. Thought they would like the new agricultural departure as teaching their boys something really useful. But they don't. Quite indignant. Say their sons are "not intended for market-gardeners." Smith Junior's parent says his boy is "meant for the Church." Didn't know this before. Smith Junior will be an ornament of the Church Militant at any rate. Drop the gardening, and go back to Bradley.

"THE USUAL CHANNEL."

Who soothes me when in sickness' grip, Brings a consolatary "nip," And earns my blessing, and his tip?— The Steward!

When persons blessed with fancy rich Declare "she" does not roll, or pitch, What say—"The case is hardly sich"?— My Senses!

What makes me long for real Free Trade, When no Douaniers could invade, Nor keys, when wanted, be mislaid?— My Luggage!

What force myself, perhaps another, To think (such thoughts we try to smother) "The donkey-engine is our brother"?— Our Feelings!

And what, besides a wobbling funnel, Screw-throb, oil-smell, unstable gunwale, Converts me to a Channel Tunnel?— My Crossing!

COOKED AT HEREFORD.

The strongest always rule the roast. Yes! we believe it fully;
So what's the natural result,
When Cooke's opposed by Pulley?
Vain contest—vain the gallant fight!
The winner's safely booked,
And forty-four good witnesses
Affirm the poulet's cooked.

THE POOR VICTIM!

John. "HM! GOOD; MIGHT BE BETTER!"

JONATHAN. "HM! BAD; MIGHT BE WORSE!"

ONLY FANCY!

Only fancy if the Earth were flat-

As most of those who live upon it are—

And you went too near the edge of it, and toppled from the ledge of it,

And landed on a distant star!

Only fancy, if you fell upon your feet,

And recovered pretty quickly from the jar,

And you understood the lingo which the people speak and sing, oh,

Who dwell upon a distant star!

Only fancy, only fancy, what a lot of things there are

Very likely to be met with on a distant star.

A goodish many things would prove

Not exactly quite the same as here, I guess;

P'raps the ladies all are pretty, and the men all smart and witty,

And marriage an unqualified success.

P'raps, like Washington, they cannot tell a lie,

And gossip is excluded from their talk;

P'raps with them a thing of course is that beef isn't made of horses,

And the milkmen haven't even heard of chalk! Only fancy, &c.

Perhaps they've no occasion for police,

Though they may keep just a few to spoon the cooks;

If they do, no doubt they're wary whom they make Home Secretary,

And the Chief Commissioner's chosen for his looks.

Very likely, if they ever play a farce,

It contains a pretty moral for the young,

And perhaps their panorama has a mission, and their drama

To the tune of the Old Hundredth's "said or sung." Only fancy, &c.

Very likely they have guns that will not burst,

And machinery that won't get out of gear;

P'raps they've even ammunition in respectable condition,

And vessels that are guaranteed to steer.

And it's possible they have Vestries who refrain

From swearing at each other when they meet:

And, though this isn't probable, they may have Boards "unjobable,"

And Contractors who will neither bribe nor cheat. Only fancy, &c.

A Parliament perhaps they may require,

But its Members very likely don't obstruct,

And each Government proposition just delights the Opposition,

And anyone who makes a noise is "chucked."

Very possibly they do not care for speech,

But if indeed they've got a Grand Old Man

In whom the fancy lingers, why, he talks upon his fingers, And they answer on the self-same plan!

Only fancy, &c.

Mrs. R. says there is such a scare now about typhoid, that she always takes a tin of disconnecting fluid about with her. She also says, a bottle of automatic vinegar is very refreshing in church.

MY GARDENERESS.

["Lady Carlisle is training an entire staff of women gardeners, who, she hopes, will keep the grounds of her Yorkshire home in as perfect a condition as their male predecessors have done."—Pall Mall Gazette.]

Come into the garden, Maud, Why has not the grass been mown? Come into the garden, Maud, Those seeds have never been sown; I fear you've been taking your walks abroad— You blush like a rose full-blown.

When the early snail first moves,
Before the sun is on high,
Beginning to gnaw the leaves he loves
On the beds, you should always try
To pick him off with your garden gloves,
And stamp on him—he must die.

You can't touch snails? Let that pass, I will smash each one in his shell;
But when it rains you can roll the grass,
When dry can water it well.
You say you can't wet your boots—alas!—
Nor work when it's warm, ma belle?

And yet your wages you claim;
I should like to know what you do.
In truth I can't bear to blame
Such a sweet pretty girl as you;
So stop as my gardener all the same—
I'll be master and workman too.

Queen rose of the rosebud garden of girls, Rough work should never be done By delicate hands as white as pearls, You only began for fun; So sit, with your parasol over your curls, Whilst I dig like mad in the sun.

IMPROVED COSTUME FOR THE METROPOLITAN POLICE DURING THE GREAT HEAT OF 1893.

WHO IS IT?

A Political Enigma. Compounded from the Press of the Period.

He's hopeless of heaven, he's too bad for ——, (So say Unionist bards, and they ought to know well,) He is Judas-cum-Cain with a soupçon of Oates, An imperious despot, who grovels for votes; A mean truckling tyrant, an autocrat slave; A Knave who plays King, and a King who plays Knave. A haughty Commander, the tool of his troops, A swayer of "items," nose-led by his dupes; A Dog-despot, wagged by the tip of his tail, A Conspirator potent, whose plot's bound to fail; The land's greatest danger, because such a dolt; As ruler a scourge, because breeding revolt; As political guide ever banefully strong,

[pg 94]

Because the majority sees he is wrong.
A prolix Polonius who proves his senility
By taking the shine out of youth and ability:
A veteran lagging superfluous, whose age
Puts him "out of it" so, that he fills the whole

So old that his age gives him every claim, Save to decent respect, which, of course, is a shame,

And absurd "fetish-worship." As Lucifer proud

And imperious, yet supple of knee to the crowd;

A CORIOLANUS who plays the JACK CADE; A coward of nothing and no one afraid; A blundering batsman whom none can bowl out;

A craven who staggers opponents most stout; A traitor who gives his whole life to the State, Whose zeal proves his spite, and his service his hate. A truckler to treason and trickster for place, Whose stubbornness oft throws him out of the race; A lover of power and public applause, Who dares to oppose the most popular cause. A talkative sophist who will not explain; A bad-tempered man, ever bland and urbane: A casuist no one can half understand, But whose sinister purpose is plain as your hand; A vituperative and venomous foe, Whose speeches with calm magnanimity glow. In short, an old dolt, who inflicts dire defeat On the smartest young foes he can manage to meet; A powerless provoker of dreadful disasters, A master of slaves whose mere slaves are his masters; A voluble sphinx, and a simple chimæra

AUSTRALIA THE (WITHOUT) GOLDEN.

Dear Mr. Punch,—I see that, with a view to economy, the Victorian Legislature have cut down the salary of their future Governors to a reasonable sum. Every one will applaud an act inspired by so worthy a motive. Still, as the officials who have been thus deprived of some of their emoluments have a certain state to keep up, I think it would be only fair were that state also to undergo revision. With a view to assisting in so desirable a programme, I jot down a few suggestions.

Uniform.—Future Governors not to be required to wear gold lace. Yellow braid to be sparingly used in decorating their frock-coats. Dirks to be substituted for swords. Cocked-hats no longer to be trimmed with feathers.

Official Entertainments.—Governors no longer to be required to ask Colonials to dinner. Luncheons with chops and steaks and boiled potatoes to be substituted for extensive menus. Balls to be given only occasionally, and guests to be served with the lightest of light refreshments (sandwiches and lemonade); and if dancing be required, dancers to supply their own orchestras.

Attending State Functions.—Governors no longer to be expected to appear in carriage and pair. Their Excellencies to be entitled to use tram-cars, omnibuses, and bicycles. When laying a foundation-stone, the Governors to be permitted to wear double-soled boots, and carry umbrellas.

Miscellaneous.—To avoid expense, salutes will be dispensed with as much as possible. When guns are fired, tubes to be used without cartridges. Flags not to be flown in wet weather, and Chairs of State always to be covered with brown holland. Gaslights to be sparingly lighted, and wax-candles abolished.

There, my dear Sir, this should be a relief both to the goose and the gander. It is quite right to economise, but it is a little strange to find that we get our first hint in this direction from the Antipodes.

Yours truly, GAY WITHOUT PAY.

A SLIGHT CONFUSION OF IDEAS.

Local Hatter. "I 'ope you'll excuse my calling, Sir George; but I 'eard as her Ladyship was going to give a Play in the Grounds—a PASTORAL Play, they told me—so I made so bold as jest to come round and say as I'd got a large assortment of CLERICAL 'Ats, and that I should be most 'appy to put 'em at her Ladyship's disposal!"

STILL WILDER IDEAS.

(Possibilities for the next O. Wilde Play.)

 $\label{eq:pupper_Number_One.} \text{Let's come into the garden, M_{AUDLE}. I adore the garden. Don't you know that the book of at least one good play begins with some epigrams in the garden, and ends with$

Puppet Number Two. Recitations—strictly puritanical. Well, let's go into the garden: there's nothing but Nature to look at there, so we will discuss—

Puppet Number One. The picture shows. It seems to me there are two principles in modern art. The first is—give a picture a good name, and they'll hang it.

Puppet Number Two. What's—ahem!—what is in a name?

Puppet Number One. Usually a good deal more than is in the picture.

Puppet Number Two. And the second principle?

Puppet Number One. Art is short, and the life (of the average Academician) is long.

Puppet Number Two. Ah, well. I suppose I shall have to ask you sooner or later to define Art.

Puppet Number One. Certainly. Art is that which invariably goes one better than Nature.

Puppet Number Two (with a sigh). And what is Nature?

Puppet Number One. Nature is that which is not so natural as it is painted.

Puppet Number Two (with a groan). What about truth in Art then?

Puppet Number One. Ah! Truth is that one infirmity of a noble mind.

Puppet Number Two. Truth is nothing if not respectable.

Puppet Number One. Remember, respectability is an affectation, of cynics, dramatic authors—and other people of no importance generally. [Exeunt severally. Curtain.

ESSENCE OF PARLIAMENT.

EXTRACTED FROM THE DIARY OF TOBY, M.P.

House of Commons, Monday, August 14.—Quite shocked to see Asher to-day. Strong constitution and a happy disposition united to make him a picture of buoyant health. Observing him walk up floor of House just now, hardly knew him. Shoulders bowed; arms hanging limp; cheeks sallow; an unspeakable sorrow in his dimmed eyes.

"What's the matter, Mr. Solicitor?" I asked, instinctively falling into the whispering tone proper in sick rooms. "Is it the state of Scotch business that weighs upon your mind? or is it true, as whispered, that necessity has been discovered for bringing in Bill amending the Borough Police and Health Act, 1892, with its 435 clauses?"

"No," said Asher; "I'm thinking of neither. My thoughts tend in quite another direction. My heart is at Deeside, my heart is not here. I have a moor there; you understand me—not a person of dark complexion, who, after much conversation, disposes of his wife with the assistance of a pillow. But a stretch of moorland, gorse-scented, grouse-haunted. I awoke early on Saturday morning hearing the popping of the guns in far-off Aboyne. Mere fancy, of course. You remember Charles Lamb's story about supping with some Scotchmen, and incidentally observing he only wished, to make the joy complete, that Burns were there? One by one the Scotchmen got up and explained to him that Burns had been dead for ever so many years, and that it was practically impossible, in view of the circumstances, that he could have been present; even, one of them added, supposing they knew Burns, and it had occurred to them to invite him. So you will say that Deeside, being hundreds of miles away, I could not hear the birds on the wing, or the pottering of the guns. In a sense, that is true; but I heard them all the same; worse still, heard them when I was in church yesterday, and should have been hearing something else. I wouldn't mind missing a day, a week, or, in the service of my Queen and country, a fortnight. What I see, and what gars me greet, is the endless vista of nights and days we shall spend here. If we get any shooting at all we shall begin with the pheasants.

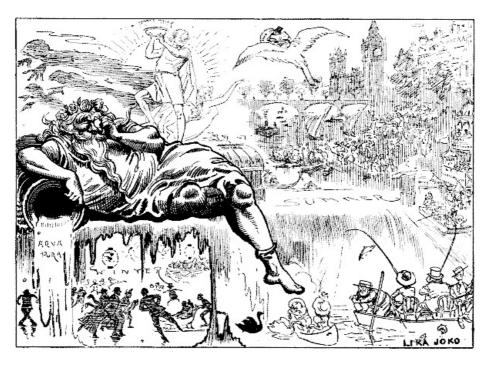

"O my Bartley, shallow-pated! O my Tommy, such a bore! O, my dear belovèd moorland, shall I see thee evermore?"

Asher's case representative of many; only his despair is the more eloquent.

FATHER THAMES PURIFIED AND GLORIFIED, AS PROMISED BY L. C. C.

Tuesday.—Just before eight bells, when all hands were piped below, Admiral Field turned up in favourite character as the honest British sailor. Rather modelled on transpontine style; a little unnecessarily noisy; too humorously aggressive; hopelessly obvious. But in present circumstances House grateful for anything; gleefully laughed whilst the Admiral shivered his timbers, talked about losing his soundings in a fog, declared against all shams, referred to himself as "honest and modest sailor who believed in straightforward action, and refused to have his eyes blinded by abstract proposals."

Admiral Field as the honest British Sailor.

That last phrase didn't sound seafaring, but, as another honest sailor was accustomed to say, its bearings lay in the application of it. Motion before House was to eliminate Second Chamber from Home-Rule scheme; brought forward by Radicals; situation difficult for Opposition. If they voted against the Government they would be declaring against principle of House of Lords. If they voted with them they would be approving a proposition of the hated Bill. Joseph judiciously got out of difficulty by declining to vote at all. Prince Arthur elaborately explained that in going into Lobby with the Radicals he was voting against a concrete proposal and in favour of an abstract principle. This too subtle for Courtney, who announced his intention of voting with Government who happened to agree with him in approving principle of Second Chamber. It was amid these cross blades that the Admiral, hitching up his trousers, danced a hornpipe. Tomlinson attempting to bring House back to more serious views, Members with one accord rushed into Lobby, and Government came out with majority of Business done.—Seventh night in Report Stage Home-Rule Bill.

Thursday.—"Whew!" said the Member for Sark. "I don't know what will become of us if things go on much longer like this. With a Premier over eighty, and the thermometer over 90, the situation is at least unusual. Even Joseph not able to maintain his favourite attitude, grafted on the iced cucumber. Just now Mr. G. made a passing remark, quite mild compared with Joey's own sly hits. J. C. up on instant, with boding brow and angry plaint that Mr. G. had attempted to slay him with a sneer."

"Yes," said Plunket, "times are hot. I don't know what we should do without Tommy Bowles. The spectacle of his white ducks is to me as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land. They talk about an army of men in the basement working machinery that keeps the temperature ten degrees below what it is marked on the Terrace. Also there is, it seems, a ton and a half of ice melting in ventilating chambers at the taxpayers' expense for our comfort. But I don't think ice is in it with Tommy's ducks. Even if they were stationary it would be something. But observe how, coming and going, Tommy's brain an argosy of great thoughts, the ducks seem to skim over our prosaic floor, calling up even to the unimaginative mind a vision of deep, tree-shaded, quietly-rippling Broad, over which the wild duck swiftly moves, waving white wings."

Only Plunket, I fancy, could evolve poesy out of to-night's scene; hot above precedent, dull beyond endurance.

"Plunket's duck picture cool and refreshing. But," said Edward of Armagh, drawing on his military experiences, "what we're doing just now may be much more accurately described as the goose step."

Quite so. We sit all afternoon and far into the night, always talking, sometimes dividing; every appearance of motion, no advance; feet lifted with due sign of walking, but when midnight strikes and parade dismissed we are found posted exactly at the same spot as that on which we took our stand at half-past three in the afternoon.

If Mr. G. means business the sooner he gets about it the better.

Business done.—None.

Friday.—Mr. G. does mean business. Commences on Monday, when Motion will be made to close Report Stage of Home-Rule Bill. Mere reference to it set House bubbling with excitement. Mr. G.'s proposed Resolution not yet drafted. "You know how it is," he said, smiling blandly at Prince Arthur; "you've had a good deal of experience in drawing Resolutions of this nature." But if Ministers not ready with their Resolution, JOSEPH prepared with Amendment. Read it out amid lively interruption.

Conversation later conducted with much vigour across the Gangway, where, a fortnight ago, Gunter received an Irish Member (not iced) full in pit of stomach. Once the Blameless Bartley signalled out Member for South Donegal, mentioning him by name as responsible for particular exclamations. "Don't presume to mention my name," said MacNeill, leaning across gangway.

Swift MacNeill refuses to be named.

"Look here, Bartley," said Tommy Bowles, "if you're going on that tack, you must come and sit at this side. When I saw MacNeill open his mouth to speak, I confess I thought I was going to be

 END OF THE PROJECT GUTENBERG EBOOK PUNCH, OR THE LONDON CHARIVARI, VOL. 105, AUGUST 26TH 1893 ***

Updated editions will replace the previous one—the old editions will be renamed.

Creating the works from print editions not protected by U.S. copyright law means that no one owns a United States copyright in these works, so the Foundation (and you!) can copy and distribute it in the United States without permission and without paying copyright royalties. Special rules, set forth in the General Terms of Use part of this license, apply to copying and distributing Project Gutenberg™ electronic works to protect the PROJECT GUTENBERG™ concept and trademark. Project Gutenberg is a registered trademark, and may not be used if you charge for an eBook, except by following the terms of the trademark license, including paying royalties for use of the Project Gutenberg trademark. If you do not charge anything for copies of this eBook, complying with the trademark license is very easy. You may use this eBook for nearly any purpose such as creation of derivative works, reports, performances and research. Project Gutenberg eBooks may be modified and printed and given away—you may do practically ANYTHING in the United States with eBooks not protected by U.S. copyright law. Redistribution is subject to the trademark license, especially commercial redistribution.

START: FULL LICENSE THE FULL PROJECT GUTENBERG LICENSE PLEASE READ THIS BEFORE YOU DISTRIBUTE OR USE THIS WORK

To protect the Project GutenbergTM mission of promoting the free distribution of electronic works, by using or distributing this work (or any other work associated in any way with the phrase "Project Gutenberg"), you agree to comply with all the terms of the Full Project GutenbergTM License available with this file or online at www.gutenberg.org/license.

Section 1. General Terms of Use and Redistributing Project Gutenberg™ electronic works

- 1.A. By reading or using any part of this Project GutenbergTM electronic work, you indicate that you have read, understand, agree to and accept all the terms of this license and intellectual property (trademark/copyright) agreement. If you do not agree to abide by all the terms of this agreement, you must cease using and return or destroy all copies of Project GutenbergTM electronic works in your possession. If you paid a fee for obtaining a copy of or access to a Project GutenbergTM electronic work and you do not agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement, you may obtain a refund from the person or entity to whom you paid the fee as set forth in paragraph 1.E.8.
- 1.B. "Project Gutenberg" is a registered trademark. It may only be used on or associated in any way with an electronic work by people who agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement. There are a few things that you can do with most Project Gutenberg $^{\text{TM}}$ electronic works even without complying with the full terms of this agreement. See paragraph 1.C below. There are a lot of things you can do with Project Gutenberg $^{\text{TM}}$ electronic works if you follow the terms of this agreement and help preserve free future access to Project Gutenberg $^{\text{TM}}$ electronic works. See paragraph 1.E below.
- 1.C. The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation ("the Foundation" or PGLAF), owns a compilation copyright in the collection of Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny M}}$ electronic works. Nearly all the individual works in the collection are in the public domain in the United States. If an individual work is unprotected by copyright law in the United States and you are located in the United States, we do not claim a right to prevent you from copying, distributing, performing, displaying or creating derivative works based on the work as long as all references to Project Gutenberg are removed. Of course, we hope that you will support the Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny M}}$ mission of promoting free access to electronic works by freely sharing Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny M}}$ works in compliance with the terms of this agreement for keeping the Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny M}}$ name associated with the work. You can easily comply with the terms of this agreement by keeping this work in the same format with its attached full Project Gutenberg $^{\text{TM}}$ License when you share it without charge with others.

- 1.D. The copyright laws of the place where you are located also govern what you can do with this work. Copyright laws in most countries are in a constant state of change. If you are outside the United States, check the laws of your country in addition to the terms of this agreement before downloading, copying, displaying, performing, distributing or creating derivative works based on this work or any other Project Gutenberg^{TM} work. The Foundation makes no representations concerning the copyright status of any work in any country other than the United States.
- 1.E. Unless you have removed all references to Project Gutenberg:
- 1.E.1. The following sentence, with active links to, or other immediate access to, the full Project GutenbergTM License must appear prominently whenever any copy of a Project GutenbergTM work (any work on which the phrase "Project Gutenberg" appears, or with which the phrase "Project Gutenberg" is associated) is accessed, displayed, performed, viewed, copied or distributed:

This eBook is for the use of anyone anywhere in the United States and most other parts of the world at no cost and with almost no restrictions whatsoever. You may copy it, give it away or re-use it under the terms of the Project Gutenberg License included with this eBook or online at www.gutenberg.org. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

- 1.E.2. If an individual Project Gutenberg[™] electronic work is derived from texts not protected by U.S. copyright law (does not contain a notice indicating that it is posted with permission of the copyright holder), the work can be copied and distributed to anyone in the United States without paying any fees or charges. If you are redistributing or providing access to a work with the phrase "Project Gutenberg" associated with or appearing on the work, you must comply either with the requirements of paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 or obtain permission for the use of the work and the Project Gutenberg[™] trademark as set forth in paragraphs 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.
- 1.E.3. If an individual Project GutenbergTM electronic work is posted with the permission of the copyright holder, your use and distribution must comply with both paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 and any additional terms imposed by the copyright holder. Additional terms will be linked to the Project GutenbergTM License for all works posted with the permission of the copyright holder found at the beginning of this work.
- 1.E.4. Do not unlink or detach or remove the full Project GutenbergTM License terms from this work, or any files containing a part of this work or any other work associated with Project GutenbergTM.
- 1.E.5. Do not copy, display, perform, distribute or redistribute this electronic work, or any part of this electronic work, without prominently displaying the sentence set forth in paragraph 1.E.1 with active links or immediate access to the full terms of the Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny TM}}$ License.
- 1.E.6. You may convert to and distribute this work in any binary, compressed, marked up, nonproprietary or proprietary form, including any word processing or hypertext form. However, if you provide access to or distribute copies of a Project Gutenberg^{TM} work in a format other than "Plain Vanilla ASCII" or other format used in the official version posted on the official Project Gutenberg^{TM} website (www.gutenberg.org), you must, at no additional cost, fee or expense to the user, provide a copy, a means of exporting a copy, or a means of obtaining a copy upon request, of the work in its original "Plain Vanilla ASCII" or other form. Any alternate format must include the full Project Gutenberg^{TM} License as specified in paragraph 1.E.1.
- 1.E.7. Do not charge a fee for access to, viewing, displaying, performing, copying or distributing any Project Gutenberg $^{\text{m}}$ works unless you comply with paragraph 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.
- 1.E.8. You may charge a reasonable fee for copies of or providing access to or distributing Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny TM}}$ electronic works provided that:
- You pay a royalty fee of 20% of the gross profits you derive from the use of Project Gutenberg™ works calculated using the method you already use to calculate your applicable taxes. The fee is owed to the owner of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark, but he has agreed to donate royalties under this paragraph to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation. Royalty payments must be paid within 60 days following each date on which you prepare (or are legally required to prepare) your periodic tax returns. Royalty payments should be clearly marked as such and sent to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation at the address specified in Section 4, "Information about donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation."

- You provide a full refund of any money paid by a user who notifies you in writing (or by email) within 30 days of receipt that s/he does not agree to the terms of the full Project Gutenberg™ License. You must require such a user to return or destroy all copies of the works possessed in a physical medium and discontinue all use of and all access to other copies of Project Gutenberg™ works.
- You provide, in accordance with paragraph 1.F.3, a full refund of any money paid for a work or a replacement copy, if a defect in the electronic work is discovered and reported to you within 90 days of receipt of the work.
- You comply with all other terms of this agreement for free distribution of Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny TM}}$ works.
- 1.E.9. If you wish to charge a fee or distribute a Project GutenbergTM electronic work or group of works on different terms than are set forth in this agreement, you must obtain permission in writing from the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the manager of the Project GutenbergTM trademark. Contact the Foundation as set forth in Section 3 below.

1.F.

- 1.F.1. Project Gutenberg volunteers and employees expend considerable effort to identify, do copyright research on, transcribe and proofread works not protected by U.S. copyright law in creating the Project GutenbergTM collection. Despite these efforts, Project GutenbergTM electronic works, and the medium on which they may be stored, may contain "Defects," such as, but not limited to, incomplete, inaccurate or corrupt data, transcription errors, a copyright or other intellectual property infringement, a defective or damaged disk or other medium, a computer virus, or computer codes that damage or cannot be read by your equipment.
- 1.F.2. LIMITED WARRANTY, DISCLAIMER OF DAMAGES Except for the "Right of Replacement or Refund" described in paragraph 1.F.3, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the owner of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark, and any other party distributing a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work under this agreement, disclaim all liability to you for damages, costs and expenses, including legal fees. YOU AGREE THAT YOU HAVE NO REMEDIES FOR NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, BREACH OF WARRANTY OR BREACH OF CONTRACT EXCEPT THOSE PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH 1.F.3. YOU AGREE THAT THE FOUNDATION, THE TRADEMARK OWNER, AND ANY DISTRIBUTOR UNDER THIS AGREEMENT WILL NOT BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ACTUAL, DIRECT, INDIRECT, CONSEQUENTIAL, PUNITIVE OR INCIDENTAL DAMAGES EVEN IF YOU GIVE NOTICE OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE.
- 1.F.3. LIMITED RIGHT OF REPLACEMENT OR REFUND If you discover a defect in this electronic work within 90 days of receiving it, you can receive a refund of the money (if any) you paid for it by sending a written explanation to the person you received the work from. If you received the work on a physical medium, you must return the medium with your written explanation. The person or entity that provided you with the defective work may elect to provide a replacement copy in lieu of a refund. If you received the work electronically, the person or entity providing it to you may choose to give you a second opportunity to receive the work electronically in lieu of a refund. If the second copy is also defective, you may demand a refund in writing without further opportunities to fix the problem.
- 1.F.4. Except for the limited right of replacement or refund set forth in paragraph 1.F.3, this work is provided to you 'AS-IS', WITH NO OTHER WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR ANY PURPOSE.
- 1.F.5. Some states do not allow disclaimers of certain implied warranties or the exclusion or limitation of certain types of damages. If any disclaimer or limitation set forth in this agreement violates the law of the state applicable to this agreement, the agreement shall be interpreted to make the maximum disclaimer or limitation permitted by the applicable state law. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this agreement shall not void the remaining provisions.
- 1.F.6. INDEMNITY You agree to indemnify and hold the Foundation, the trademark owner, any agent or employee of the Foundation, anyone providing copies of Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny TM}}$ electronic works in accordance with this agreement, and any volunteers associated with the production, promotion and distribution of Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny TM}}$ electronic works, harmless from all liability, costs and expenses, including legal fees, that arise directly or indirectly from any of the following which you do or cause to occur: (a) distribution of this or any Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny TM}}$ work, (b) alteration, modification, or additions or deletions to any Project Gutenberg $^{\text{\tiny TM}}$ work, and (c) any Defect you cause.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg™

Project Gutenberg[™] is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project GutenbergTM's goals and ensuring that the Project GutenbergTM collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project GutenbergTM and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 809 North 1500 West, Salt Lake City, UT 84116, (801) 596-1887. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project GutenbergTM depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1$ to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg $^{\scriptscriptstyle{\text{TM}}}$ electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg^m concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg^m eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg^m eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility: www.qutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg $^{\text{TM}}$, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.
